SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

- C-6 1. In January 1950 the airfield six miles from Chiamassu (130-21, 46-49) was being used only by the Soviet Air Force; no Communist planes were on the field. About 30 planes enter the field daily. Another field about three kilometers south of the Lao Lien (老連) station, 48 kilometers from Chiamassu on the railway to Harbin, has a staff of about a hundred members of the Soviet Air Force, including mechanics. Approximately 15 planes are stationed on the field.
2. In early March 1950 the airfield at Harbin was given additional guards and barricades. More than 20 planes are observed on daily flights over the city. All planes are single-engined and are believed to be trainers.
